Market Fall Festival Offers Fun Day for Families

By Marsha Hewitt
Editor, SC Market Bulletin

For a fun day the whole family can enjoy, consider The Market Fall Festival on Sunday, Oct. 29 at the SC State Farmers Market.

The festival is a joint venture between The Market Restaurant, managed by Dupre Percival, and The Market Tea Room, run by manager Jennifer Gerdes. They wanted to offer an event to celebrate the growth of the tea room, which opened in March.

Last year Jennifer hosted a festival at their former location on Senate Street, which attracted more than 35 vendors and about 500 people. This year she already has several dozen vendors, all of whom are unique and local.

"It's about South Carolina and who we are," she said. Jennifer's goal is to expand the opportunity for local creatives to share their work with South Carolina.

Children are asked to come in costume so they can trick or treat with all the vendors. Kids will enjoy children's authors, storytelling, poets, balloon animals, face painting, and a hot dog vendor. Girl Scout Troop 542, in uniform, will be selling handmade crafts.

For adults, the food trucks will have a variety of fresh locally sourced foods, plus beer and wine and an iced tea bar. A live jazz band, featuring vocalist Amanda Mayo, will be performing throughout the day. An open microphone will be available for comedians.

All of the artisans and artists are local, with a South Carolina flair. Vendors range from reflexology (foot massages) to SC Specialty Food Association booths.

Jennifer looks for creativity in artists and "makers," whom she defined as anyone who makes something, whether it's homemade jam, recipes, or crafts. "I like to be unique," she said. "We invited interesting people."

The organizer suggested that people bring chairs to enjoy the festivities and the music. "This is a family day, and a family affair. People can come after church and spend the day." The fair will be held inside the tea room and in the parking lot beside the building.

Admission is free and hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information email TheMarketTeaRoom@gmail.com.

'Best of America by Horseback' to Film Hobcaw Barony for National TV show

GEORGETOWN--On Oct. 23 and 24, the nationally known television show "Best of America by Horseback" will be filming Hobcaw Barony, undeniably one of South Carolina's most precious jewels.

Producer Tom Seay, who literally travels the world looking for the most unique places on earth, has chosen Hobcaw as the subject for one of his television shows. The episode will feature the history and culture of the plantation, with an emphasis on the value of this vast preserve. The most significant features include Hobcaw House, Bellefield, the stables, the Vereen house, Friendfield Village, and of course the grandeur of the property itself.

Filmmaker Pat Seay has been shooting her husband's shows for the past 12 years. While the show usually features scenic or unusual places for people to ride their horses, Pat and Tom have chosen to showcase the plantation, with a sidebar on the horseback riding trails that are available only by reservation.

While the horses won't get top billing in this episode, South Carolina's Lowcountry will. The show airs on RFD-TV. The SC Department of Agriculture is hosting a social hour at Discovery Center on Monday afternoon.

For information about the filming or the show, contact Marsha Hewitt at 803-727-6420.

Commissioner

Well Deserved Harvests

Finally, our state's farmers have caught a break. After two fairly disastrous years, Mother Nature has smiled on our state, and we are looking at near-record harvests of corn, cotton, and peanuts. Our last crop to come in, soybeans, still has a few weeks to go.

Nearly all our South Carolina farmers were affected over the last two years by historic flooding, a hurricane, and an ill-timed freeze. The resilience of our farmers was severely tested. I am delighted to share the great prospects for the state's corn, cotton, and peanut crops.

In my travels around the state I was excited to see corn fields with great potential. I was hopeful that the corn quality and yields were as good as they looked, and I was right. Corn yields this year will no doubt prove to be best we've had in years. A total of 375,000 all-purpose corn acres were planted, and 350,000 acres were used for grain. Official yields will be available soon, but more than one farmer spoke of yields over 200 bushels per acre. At the market price, we will have total value of production around $165 million. South Carolina farmers who planted corn should be happy with the results of this year's crop.

Harvests,

Part 2 Solar Farms will appear in the Nov. 2 issue.

Well Deserved Harvests

Moving on to cotton. In 2016, the damage that farmers' fields had from the catastrophic rainfall severely lowered the pounds of cotton that were harvested. But this year, the weather cooperated. With moderate summer temperatures and well-timed average rainfall, cotton farmers all over South Carolina are producing near-record harvests. Cotton specialists are predicting a possible average of 960 pounds of cotton per acre, which would be a record.

Cotton acreage was up this year, with 250,000 acres planted compared to 190,000 acres in 2016. The USDA is predicting our cotton crop at 98 percent good to excellent, which has never happened before. Barring another hurricane or similar disaster, producers will be happy with their yields. Harvest will continue for another month or so.

The last of our crops currently being harvested is peanuts. South Carolina is ranked Number 5 in the United States for peanut production. Since we have only 425 peanut farmers, that ranking testifies to their expertise. In August, Peanut Field Day at the Edisto Research and Education Center in Blackville attracted more than 100 farmers. They heard specialists talk about irrigation, problems and research, among other things.

In addition, farmers had the opportunity to discuss the future of the peanut industry in our state. An unprecedented peanut crop is predicted for 2017. Last year 106,000 acres of peanuts were planted, but this year that increased to roughly 120,000 acres. The tonnage has increased from 175,000 tons to an estimated 234,000 tons, a 34 percent increase. If you find yourself riding in peanut country, you can see the combines out there getting in a great crop.

These outstanding crop reports make me happy and proud of our resilient South Carolina farmers and their crops.

RECIPE CORNER

Featuring Certified SC Products

Apple Bacon Cheddar Baked Sliders

Ingredients

9 slices Carolina Pride® bacon
3 tsp. brown sugar
Fresh cracked black pepper
6 Slider buns
1 Certified SC Grown apple
4-6 slices sharp cheddar cheese

Directions

1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees and line a large, rimmed baking sheet with aluminum foil.
2. Layer raw slices of bacon on the prepared baking sheet, side by side, in one even layer.
3. Sprinkle a little brown sugar over each slice of bacon and rub it evenly. Grate some black pepper all over bacon slices.
4. Bake for 15-20 minutes. (Bake time highly depends on the thickness of bacon. Some bacon can take up to 23 minutes to bake. Make sure to check on bacon every couple of minutes after the first 13 minutes.)
5. Take cooked bacon out. Place a sheet of paper towel on a plate and lay bacon strips on the paper towel to soak up excess grease.
6. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees.
7. Cut slider buns in half, width-wise. Place bottom halves, side by side, in a baking dish.
8. Fold bacon slices in half and layer them over bottom buns. Each slider will have about 1½ slices of bacon.
9. Place 2-3 thin slices of apple over bacon.
10. Top apples with a slice of cheddar cheese. You can break slices of cheese to fit the slider bun if you don't want the cheese to run off onto the baking dish.
11. Place top buns over cheese.
12. Bake for 12-15 minutes.
